“ Growing up, when you knew I'd be worried literally sick about you, your go to words to me were "hey don't worry I'll be alright". It never failed you always managed to bounce back. I can still hear you telling me as if you sitting right beside me. I miss you, I think about you, you may see these tears fall from time to time. But don't worry, I'll be alright. I love you forever missed forever in my heart. Rest in piece grand daddy. See you when I get there....

“ I have many memories of daddy but my favorite is on JUNE 7TH i turned 45 and my mom asked my dad if he wanted to say HAPPY BIRTHDAY and he called out my name " SHEL". Daddy would always get the family gatherings together. We played board games, spades and being the baby girl i had my way alot. Daddy would take me to my grandmother's while he and my mom worked and every morning we would stop at the store and get donuts and juice. When i started school he said i was too little to go so whenever i cried and said i didnt want to daddy would let me stay at home. We sat up late sometimes and talked about everything then we get sleepy and end our night with me saying " GOOD NIGHT DADDY LOVE YOU SEE YOU IN THE MORNING " Daddy was just an. awesome dad all the around. Thank God for memories that our forever in your heart.
